According to The U.S. Department of Labor news release last week, “The U.S. Department of Labor announced it will begin a phased pause in operations at contractor-operated Job Corps center nationwide, initiating an orderly transition for students, staffs, and local communities. The decision follows an internal review of the program’s outcome and structure and will be carried out in accordance with available funding, the statutory framework established under the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act, and congressional notification requirements.

The pause of operations at all contractor-operated Job Corps centers will occur by June 30, 2025. As the transition begins, the department is collaborating with the state and local workforce partners to assist current students in advancing their training and connecting them with education and employment opportunities.”

The Job Corps program will begin transitioning students out of the program. While many students plan to return to their home on record some may decide to relocate to the continental United States or remain in the Hawaiian Islands.
